March 8, 2023 (ATLANTA, GA) – The Organization for Safety, Asepsis and Prevention (OSAP) opens registration for its 2023 Annual Conference from June 1 - 3 in Tucson, Arizona at The Westin La Paloma Resort and Spa.

The 2023 OSAP Annual Conference features opportunities for learning and engagement, including plenary sessions and concurrent sessions presented by nationally and internationally recognized speakers, receptions and social activities, a fun'draising auction, and space to connect with sponsors, exhibitors, and innovative thinkers in dental infection prevention, occupational health, and patient safety from across the globe.

“The OSAP Annual Conference brings together infection prevention and safety decision-makers and future-forward thinkers to learn about current and emerging issues in infection prevention and safety in oral healthcare settings, and share resources and tools to optimize compliance,” said OSAP Executive Director Michelle Lee. “We are thrilled to return to Tucson, a fan-favorite location. Participants will experience the area’s beauty and leave feeling reinvigorated and prepared to take on various challenges impacting their organizations”.

OSAP will also offer a one-day Pre-Conference Workshop on May 31. This workshop will enable participants to collect the tools they need to address infection control and prevention challenges in their work environment. The workshop will include didactic presentations and hands-on activities to create an engaging learning experience. The workshop can be added to full conference registration or purchased as a standalone.

Two registration types are available – In-Person Plus and On-Demand Only. All participants can earn ADA CERP CE credits. On-demand recordings will be available for registered participants for 60 days following the conference.
